Luciano Pietrafesa - acoustic guitar and loop station

Leon Bertone – electronics, programming and synthesizers

History

In August 2001 Lilian Giubetich - Violoncello and Luciano Pietrafesa -Guitar- meet in Italy during a seminar organised by the international school “Guitar Craft. Since then, they have shared stages becoming part of the “Berlin Guitar Ensemble”, with whom they performed live in many tours around Germany and Italy.

In 2003 Leon Bertone joins the band and ARGENTO, now with a defined identity, begins to produce its own repertoire for duo of Violoncello and Guitar with electronic arrangements, creating a fusion that goes beyond Tango.

ARGENTO TANGO FUSION is an excellent combination of Astor Piazzolla and avant guard electronic arrangements. This attractive modernisation of the popular “portenia” music leads the listener to sound landscapes where passion and music have a common place.

During the live performances IJ&MJ involve the audience in a warm intimate swirl. Their repertoire is based mainly in electronic versions of Astor Piazzolla, contemporary musicians together together with other artistic disciplines.

At present, ARGENTO TANGO FUSION are performing live in Spain, England and Argentina, presenting performances combining other artistic disciplines.
